

Apply for the School of Journalism & Media Studies Graduate Program

The School of Journalism & Media Studies offers a Master of Arts degree in communication with a specialization in mass communication and media studies.

This two-year program allows students to delve into the nuances of mass communication and learn critical thinking skills about the changing media industry. Students come out of this program with the skills to make a difference in the media industry at the midcareer, strategic or academic level.

Requirements

- CSU application
- Official transcripts
- Resume
- Statement of Purpose

Deadlines for Fall 2022

Cal State Apply &
SDSU Graduate Admissions:
March 1, 2022

Apply

[jms.sdsu.edu/admissions/
graduate_admissions](https://jms.sdsu.edu/admissions/graduate_admissions)

Cost

See the SDSU Estimated Costs for the Graduate Program for the latest information: admissions.sdsu.edu/cost

TOEFL

Additional test scores are required of applicants whose medium of instruction was in a language other than English. Test scores must be within the past two years. Results from ONE of the following tests must be submitted.

- Minimum TOEFL score of 80 IBT/550 PBT
- Overall IELTS score of 6.5 or higher
- Minimum PTE score of 58 or higher
- Official transcripts indicating English as the principal language of instruction

Limited number of teaching assistant positions and scholarships available

For more information visit our website or contact Dr. Amy Schmitz Weiss, Graduate Advisor for the School of JMS: aschmitz@sdsu.edu

JOURNALISM & MEDIA STUDIES
SAN DIEGO STATE UNIVERSITY